

1833 NE 175th Street
Shoreline, WA, 98155

Phone: (+1) 312.925.4035
khascall@gmail.com
CV at kayleachampion.com

KAYLEA CHAMPION

My work examines how people maintain and extend their privacy as they connect and collaborate online. These analyses drive evidence-based strategies to support thriving, generative communities.

Employment Data Science

Experience 2017– Doctoral Student Researcher and Instructor. Community Data Science Collective, Communication Department, University of Washington

Leadership and Management

2012–2014 Director, Digital Media & Classroom Technologies, University of Chicago
2010–2012 Director, Collaborative & Academic Technologies, University of Chicago
2007–2010 Director, Scholarly Tech. & Research Computing, University of Chicago

Education University of Washington

2017– Ph.D in Communication (Expected 2023)
2017–2019. MA in Communication.

University of Massachusetts Boston

2014–2016. MA in Critical and Creative Thinking.

University of Chicago

2004–2007. MS in Computer Science
1994–1998. BA in Near Eastern Languages and Civilizations

Skills Data Science

Machine learning and text-as-data; natural language processing; classifiers
Quantitative research: regression, time series, multi-level modeling
Qualitative research: interviews, textual analysis, forensic approaches
Data analysis and visualization using R, Python, SQL, Spark
Insightful social computing scientist; 7+ published papers (ACM CSCW, Social Media and Society, IEEE Security and Privacy, SANER)

Business

Online communities SME; distill research into business strategy (20+ presentations to technical/business groups about online communities, risk, and privacy; taught classes on Online Communities, Human-Computer Interaction Research)
Sought-after and award-winning research reviewer (40+ peer reviews completed)
Generous, energetic mentor and colleague (supervised interns; led workshops)
Self-managing and self-motivating with experience in consulting, project management, leadership, community partnerships, and customer service.